In the past two weeks at least 35 or 40 new Soviet planes, including fighters, arrived at the Wiener Neustadt airport which is located about ten kilometers north of Wiener Neustadt. [REDACTED] who claims familiarity with Soviet plane design, states that these are the first fighters seen on the apron of this field. Previously only training planes and a few transport planes were observed. The fighters are described as a new type, single seater, low wing monoplane with nearly triangular rudder design.
